An Upscale Retirement Community

A high-end retirement community, in the Triangle, has all the amenities that you could want and more. It's complete with dining facilities, health facilities, and numerous floor plans to choose from, for resident living. However, this multi-building facility presented a networking challenge. That's when the retirement community contacted Milner for help.

At the time, the retirement community was still under construction. Knowing what Milner could provide, the retirement community contacted us to establish a solid IT infrastructure as each building was being built. Once they chose from the options we presented, we were able to plan the install of their network with both management and other vendors involved in the construction process.

As of today, Milner provides and currently manages a number of their networked devices including the server, workstations, wireless internet access, printing, and firewall security.

The reason the retirement center chose Milner is simple. We are one source for their office technology needs; we provide services at a reasonable price; and we take the burden of managing 3rd party vendors that integrate with or affect their IT network. After being in business for more than 70 years, Milner is a proven resource that they can rely on for advice and guidance through the complexity of their next IT challenge.
